

Gossamer Wings (2013)

Flute, clarinet, toy piano, percussion, violin & cello

Erik Griswold

Notes for Gossamer Wings

The title of “Gossamer Wings” alludes to the classic Cole Porter song “Just one of those things” (which has the line “a trip to the moon on gossamer wings”). I have always loved that phrase and the image that it conjures up, and it became the starting point for my exploration of musical moods and textures. The three movements – “Spinning,” “Suspended,” and “Moon Dancing” - travel through many sound worlds, and touch briefly on a number of half-remembered styles...in various sections you might hear influences from Debussy, Stravinsky, maybe even Cole Porter himself! “Gossamer Wings” is the second composition I’ve created for Margaret Leng Tan (after the solo “Old McDonald’s Yellow Submarine”), and is deeply inspired by the wonderful sound universe she has carved out. It was composed with generous support from the Australia Council for the Arts.

Instrumentation

Gossamer Wings calls for flute, b-flat clarinet, toy piano, percussion, violin and cell.

The toy piano needs a 3-octave range (F3-F6).

The percussion instruments required are as follows:

Part 1 & 2 – Xylphones

Part 3 – Toy drum kit (cymbal, snare, & kick drum)

1. Spinning

Energetic  $\text{♩} = 120$

The musical score consists of two systems of six staves each. The instruments are Flute, Clarinet in B<sub>b</sub>, Xylophone, Toy Piano, Violin, and Cello. The key signature is consistently one flat throughout. The tempo is indicated as Energetic  $\text{♩} = 120$ . The first system begins with the Flute and Clarinet in B<sub>b</sub> playing eighth-note patterns, while the Xylophone and Toy Piano provide harmonic support. The Violin and Cello enter later, with the Violin using pizzicato technique. The second system continues with the Flute, Clarinet, and Xylophone maintaining their rhythmic patterns, joined by the Violin and Cello. The Toy Piano part is notably absent in the second system.
